HE HAD THE PULL

Words on the Latest Remarkable Promotion.

Col. Barber and Col. Smith—Comparison of Services and Rewards Made.

(Examiner, Dec. 11.)

Yesterday's dispatches from Washington gazetted Col. Thomas H. Barber of the First New York Volunteer Infantry, to be Brigadier General, doubtless (although this is not mentioned) because of the severe campaign which Col. Barber fought on the peninsula of San Francisco and his overwhelming victories won against tremendous odds amid the tropic shades of Hawaii, where he may have commanded as many as seventeen parades and ordered more than a dozen salutes without losing a man, unless he got lost in the military shuffle or died of eating embalmed beef.

Col. Barber is a haughty example of the New York nobility, and is chiefly distinguished for his wealth. He is reputed to have money to throw at the birds. It is not forgotten how when he arrived with his command in San Francisco and the vivid odors of Camp Richmond were brought between the wind and his nobility he turned up his haughty nose and remarked that "the camp might do for common soldiers, but not for such as he and his." Straightway he used his pull, which is mighty, and had his regiment transferred to the Presidio, where they stayed until they sailed away across the tropic seas to the islands of the annexed district. In Honolulu the New Yorkers, although gallant in parade, did not behave themselves very well, and in fact rather disgusted the peaceful people of those happy islands, who did not understand why they should be visited with a horde of un-disciplined louts and hoodlums. However, after an elegant and bloodless sojourn in Honolulu Col. Barber had enough of war's alarm, and once more putting his pull in operation, had himself and his men shipped home again.
Like the King of France, he had marched his army up the hill and then marched down again. For these eminent services he is now gazetted a Brigadier, because republics are not ungrateful when you have a pull.

On the other hand, there is plain Col. Jim Smith, commanding the First Regiment of California Volunteers. We all saw him and his men go out with the very first expedition to Manila to take their chances in a real war among savages and fevers. They did their fighting gallantly when called on, and the lives of some of them were given for their country. Now they are bidden to further service of danger at Ho-lilo, and they are not backward to respond. Their commanding officer is a splendid soldier, but apparently he has no pull, and still he is plain Col. Jim Smith.

Look on this picture and on that.
